

Kickinghorse Chalet Golden, BC

This vacation residence is located in the Canadian Rocky Mountains, a landscape that has been defined by adventure, majestic and rugged nature, and a regulated resort architecture that conveys the elegant and rustic style of the early 20th Century Arts and Crafts. The design is a compliment to the surrounding context, while integrating contemporary elements and technologies. Accommodating two families, the plan integrates living spaces for large social gatherings, and two unique private master suites – one offering views of the mountains, and the other providing birds-eye-views of the valley.
